Schools and Community Work

I have planned and delivered workshops and projects on curriculum and theatre topics for venues and schools across the UK, including: Young Vic Taking Part, Old Vic, Battersea Arts Centre, Jackson's Lane, Bush Theatre, New Diorama, City of London Academy (Bermondsey), Z-Arts Manchester, Islington Community Theatre, Warts and All (Northampton), Waterman's Youth Theatre in Brentford, University of Bristol and Leeds Beckett University. I have worked as Lead Practitioner at inclusive youth theatre Hackney Shed, and as Schools Artist for Southwark Playhouse. I have taught acting at the Lir Academy Dublin, Identity School of Acting, ALRA North, City University London, the Year Out Drama Company in Stratford-upon-Avon, Richmond University and the Actors Centre. I have developed and facilitated public-facing events and activities for Natural History Museum, Tate Britain, Wellcome Collection and Andy Field.

Other work

I read scripts for the National Theatre, Bush Theatre and the Hampstead.

I have directed readings of new audio drama for Audible.

I am the co-founder and curator of Beta Public, London's only night of video games and performance. Beta Public has run at Camden People's Theatre for six years, presenting game and theatre work at the cutting edge of performance and play. In 2017 Beta Public curated a room at the V&A's September Late.
